Reminder for Plumbing Contractors Engaging in Well Pump Installation/Repair/Replacement

On August 5, 2009, the North Carolina General Assembly approved a general statute change that gives plumbing contractors licensed by this Board an opportunity to “install pumps or pumping equipment; installing, breaking, or re-installing a well seal in accordance with G.S. 87-85(6); or disinfects a well incident to the installation, alteration, or replacement of pumps or pumping equipment within or near a well” in lieu of holding a Level D Well Certification from the North Carolina Well Contractor Certification Commission.

In order to receive the exemption, the plumbing contractor shall maintain documentation of having attended a continuing education course that covered well seal installation, protection, and sanitation within the last two years prior to the work being performed. Thereafter, in order to remain eligible for the exemption, a contractor would need to complete the course every two years and maintain documentation of such course attendance.

So how does a licensed plumbing contractor find a course that covers well seal installation, protection, and sanitation in order to qualify for the exemption? Our website contains a menu item titled “Education & Providers”. Clicking on the menu button will open a new page which lists a wide variety of continuing education topics. Clicking on the individual links will open a new document which lists the providers that have informed us of their intention to conduct classes in that particular subject area. There are currently three providers offering the Well Seal Installation, Protection & Sanitation course. Licensees interested in attending a class and obtaining this exemption should contact the providers below for information on class dates, times, and locations:

Renewal Reminder

It's that time of year again! All licenses issued by the Board expire on December 31st of every year and must be renewed annually in order to engage in activities requiring licensure. Renewal notices will be mailed to all licensees in early October, and will contain your user name and password if you wish to use the online renewal service and a credit card. The form may also be submitted to our office with check or money order as in years past.

THERE IS NO GRACE PERIOD!

If the license is not renewed by December 31st all bidding, contracting, and work on jobs requiring a license must cease until the license has been restored to active status. Local inspection departments have the right to deny permit applications if a license is expired.

Without fail, we receive calls throughout the months of January, February and even into March from contractors in a panic because they cannot obtain permits for a job that they need to start immediately. We cannot renew licenses over the telephone, and cannot renew licenses while you wait if you visit our office.

If you wish to renew the license immediately, it may be renewed online if it expired in 2014 and there are no changes to the trade name or sub-licensees. If submitting your renewal form and payment to our office, please understand that it may take 2-3 days to process the renewal and reactivate the license.

Licenses renewed after January 31st will also be subject to a $25.00 late renewal processing fee. This is simply an opportunity to renew during January without paying a late fee, and is not a grace period during which licensed activities can be continued without renewal.

Currently active licensees may renew online by using the username and password contained on the renewal notice, and a MasterCard or VISA. As in years past, you may also bring or mail the renewal form and a check or money order to the Board's office. If you do not have the renewal form that was mailed, you may download it from the Forms page of our website (see page 6 of this newsletter for more information).

Grace Period Following Loss of Licensee

There is an unfortunate misunderstanding among many business owners that there is a 30, 45, 60, 90, 120 or 180 day grace period that they may continue activities requiring a license after the qualifying licensee for the firm has quit, been fired, died, or is no longer a full-time active employee of the company for any reason.

THERE IS NO GRACE PERIOD!!!

The day that the licensee is no longer able to execute bids, quotes, and or contracts, or supervise the work being performed by the other employees of the firm, all activities which require a license must cease, even on jobs which are already permitted or in progress. Activities cannot be resumed until a Trade Name Change form and any related forms are processed by the Board staff and the new licensee is reflected on the Board's website.

Example 1: Lee holds a plumbing contractor license, and serves as the qualifier for the plumbing company which he owns. Lee's wife, 3 sons and 2 daughters all work for the company, but none hold a license. Lee has a massive heart attack and though he survives, becomes permanently disabled and unable to work. The firm's license became inactive the moment that Lee experienced the heart attack and became unable to perform or supervise work requiring a license. The family was unable to find another qualified licensee who was willing to work for them and list his or her license in the firm name, and before any of Lee's children can go through the application and examination process, the company fails financially and leaves the remaining 6 family members without a job.

Solution: Lee should have insisted that at least one or more of his children obtain a license from the Board and become listed as a sub-licensee. When Lee suffered his medical emergency, they could have submitted a Trade Name Change form to the Board and been back in business legally within a matter of days, allowing the family owned company to continue doing business for many more years.

Example 2: Tom owns a very successful HVAC company with 20 employees but does not hold a license. His lifelong friend, John, holds all of the heating contractor qualifications from the Board and has served as the firm's qualifier for the 20 years that they have been in business. Unfortunately, Jim and Tom have a major disagreement one Monday morning over John's excessive workload and John storms out of the office never to return. Tom is unable to find a licensee who is willing to work for him and he doesn't have the hands-on installation experience to qualify for the license. Uncertain of the company's future, none of the employees will commit to the licensing process. After 20 years of success, Tom's HVAC company fails and puts 40 employees out of work.

Solution: Tom should have encouraged other employees to obtain their license over the years. They could have then been listed as sub-licensees and could have taken a great deal of responsibility off of John by assisting him with field supervision of the jobs and possibly prevented John from leaving. If John was intent on leaving, Tom could have offered the lead position to one of John's sub-licensees and the company could have been back to full steam before the end of the week.

Attorney's Comment

A committee and staff at the General Assembly has embarked on a study whether all licensing boards, including the Plumbing Heating and Fire Sprinkler Board, should be abolished, combined with other boards, or placed inside State Government. As attorney to the Board, I view this as a major threat to self-regulation of the industry and, in fact, of all occupations and professions.

Most of you know that, since 1931, this Board has collected a limited amount of money from you and used a cross-section of industry folks to protect the public and regulate the industry. In my view the Board has done a good job for 83 years with a limited amount of money.

Let me make a few succinct comments:

- Sending your money to the Department of Commerce or some other large bureaucracy will not give you more bang for the buck. In fact, you will pay the same amount or more, a chunk will be raked off the top, and there will be less money, net, to get rid of bad apples or stop unlicensed ripoff artists.
- Forcing the Board to use the State computer system would be a disaster just like medicaid—the Board has a pretty good computer system already.
- Most industry people say that the umbrella agency in Virginia and other states is not nearly as responsive as your Board has been to you.
- Forcing your license renewal, or your complaint, or your license application to go through a large bureaucracy downtown before it can be handled by the Board will add cost and delay.
- This Board is pretty efficient and frugal----It's my experience that nearly every Board I have observed is more efficient and frugal than the rest of State government.
- The ability of this Board to raise its own money when it must, and hire and fire when necessary, makes the Board far more effective and efficient than having this Board and your fees absorbed in the State budget---besides, the entire budget of this board wouldn't run state government until lunchtime.

Send me an email to JNF@youngmoorelaw.com if you're willing to help us tell the Legislature: "If it ain't broke, don't fix it."

Resolution Review Committee Report

A Field Resolution Agreement is a voluntary agreement by which a licensee enters into some type of sanctions against their license instead of appearing before the Resolution Review Committee or the Full Board at a formal hearing. All of the Agreements are reviewed by a member of the Resolution Review Committee and then presented to a Board hearing panel for approval prior to the agreement being adopted as a final agency decision. If a complaint has not been resolved in the field through a Field Resolution Agreement, then the case can be referred to the Resolution Review Committee. During the Resolution Review Committee meeting, a licensee can enter into a Review Committee Resolution Agreement in place of appearing before the Board at a formal hearing; the agreement is then presented to a Board hearing panel for approval prior to the agreement being adopted as a final agency decision. Cases that cannot be resolved through the use of Field Resolution Agreements or Review Committee Resolution Agreements are forwarded to formal hearings before the Board. Listed below are the different agreements entered into by the field staff and the Resolution Review Committee that have been approved by the Board. The information below does not contain all of the facts or details of each case. Specific details of any of the following cases can be obtained by e-mail (information@nclicensing.org) or upon written re-
